DETAILED ACTION

1. In view of the appeal brief filed on May 15, 2003, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. New grounds of rejection are set forth below.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

(1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,

(2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-2, 4-5, 7, 9-10, 12-13, 15, and 17-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent No. 5,644,179 to Staub et al.

Staub et al. discloses the construction of gas cooled end turns for dynamoelectric machine rotor, comprising:

a rotor (10) having a spindle and a body portion (12), a rotor winding having axially extending coils (20) and end turns (24) defining a plurality of concentric

Art Unit: 2834

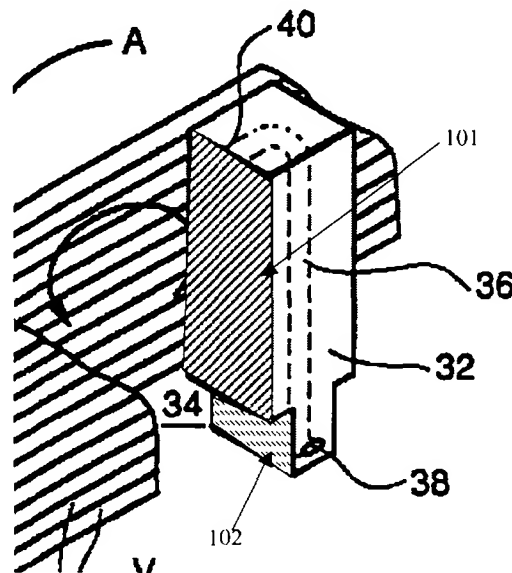

endwindings extending axially beyond at least one end of said body portion, said endwindings and said spindle defining an annular space therebetween; and at least one, or a plurality of spaceblocks (32) located between adjacent said endwindings so as to define cavities (34), each bounded by adjacent spaceblocks and adjacent endwindings and open to said annular space; and each said spaceblock having:

first and second sidewalls engaging said adjacent endwindings, an generally planar upstream wall (Figure 4), and a downstream wall (surfaces 101 and 102 of Figure 3), having a non-planar/aerodynamic contour for reducing the extent and strength generated wake.

4. With regards to claims 5 and 13, Staub et al. disclose a spaceblock which is comprised of a generally rectangular main body portion (32) and a protrusion portion, said main body portion defining said upstream wall and said sidewall portions, and said protrusion portions defining said downstream wall as shown in Figure 3.

5. With regards to claims 17 and 18, Staub et al. further comprises a rotor spindle extending axially beyond said at least one end of said body portion and defining an annular space with said endwindings, and wherein:

said at least one spaceblock extends radially into said annular space; and said plurality of spaceblocks extend radially into said annular space.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 8 and 16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over U.S. Patent No. 5,644,179 to Staub et al. in view of common knowledge in the art.

Staub et al. discloses the construction of gas cooled end turns for dynamoelectric machine rotor as described above.

It must be noted that it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to integrally form the re-entrant portion with the body portion, since it has been held that forming in one piece an article, which has formerly been formed in two pieces and put together, involves only routine skill in the art. Howard v. Detroit Stove Works, 150 U.S. 164 (1893). The term “integral” is sufficiently broad to embrace constructions united by such means as fastening and welding. In re Hotte, 177 USPQ 326, 328 (CCPA 1973).

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claims 3, 6, 11, and 14 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

9. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter.

The prior art of record, taken alone or in combination, fails to teach the construction of a dynamoelectric machine as disclosed on independent claims 1 and 9, wherein the downstream wall is defined as a generally parabolic curve.
